".....respect to amateur radio operations during "government sponsored" emergency preparedness and disaster readiness drills and tests."....

Comments: Limiting amateur radio operators from developing skills with respect to American Red Cross or Salvation Army or other coordinating agencies who provide valuable services during disasters is very narrow-minded. The "government" agencies don't and can't do it alone. Please allow all agencies who are governmental "partners" (MOUs, perhaps?) and the amateur radio operators who support them to practice and improve skills for disaster mitigation and recovery efforts.
